Dear Future Attorney:

I would like to introduce you to The Bar Examination Academy and Lawyer Makers, LLC. We teach bar exam applicants how to specifically study and write to pass their bar examinations. We, first and foremost, teach our students the following:

- How to write clear, concise, and lawyer-like answers on the essay and performance components of the bar examination;
- We show students how on performance memorandums (objective & persuasive), demand letters, opinion letters, etc., how the answer is, more likely than not, already written for you;
- How to adequately study and prepare for the two-hundred (200) question multiple-choice component of the bar examination; and,
- How scriptures in the Gospel of Luke can assist the student in achieving success on the multiple-choice (Luke 9:62) and essay/performance (Luke 23: 39 - 43) components of the bar examination.

Please note that the difference in passing a bar exam can be less than one (1) point on the essay or performance components of the bar exam. Because many of the students we assist are repeating the bar exam, we do not boast about pass rates because we know that the bar exam is an extremely personal test which requires individual effort, hard work, and the results depend on the amount of work each individual invests into their preparation.

In the 2019 bar exam cycle, we had students who were multiple-time repeat takers achieve astonishing¹ passing scores (280, 276, 272, 270, 266) on the Uniform Bar Examination®.² In July 2017, we had students pass their respective bar examinations in the jurisdictions of Arkansas, Alabama, and Tennessee. In February 2017 and July 2019, we had students who raised their overall bar examination score by 35 (thirty-five) points and passed. In February 2018, we had multiple-repeat takers score 274 and 270. In July 2016, one of our students, from an unaccredited law school, scored a 298 on the UBE.

Please note, we specialize in those individuals who have encountered previous difficulty in passing their bar examinations. Lawyer Makers, LLC has formed a strategic alliance with the National Black Law Students Association to offer discounts for its members. Our 16-session July 2020 Bar Exam class begins Saturday, March 28, 2020 and is available Online.
